

ABOUT Bin e. V.

Bin e. V. is committed to the professional integration of immigrants in Hamburg. Our focus is on successful integration of immigrants into society through providing them with support in accessing the labor market. As a migrant self-organization, the association fulfills a role model function in Hamburg.

Bin e. V., as a non-profit association, advises on all questions relating to the assessment of competencies, the preparation of recognition procedures, professional qualifications and further training measures, job searches and job-related language training.

At Bin e. V. participants are given individual advice, as well as qualified and long-term support. We offer one to one coaching in person as well as with aid of digital technology and, if necessary, telephone coaching. We develop projects with language support and vocational training, especially for women, as well as practical life and integration aids.

Bin e. V. has access to a wide range of contacts in the job market. We provide optimal support to each participant in taking up a job or trying out an occupation in a company.

Real-life advice for mothers and women personalised, extensive, free of charge

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

Lenah stands for practical real-life counselling, aimed at women and mothers who are new in Hamburg and would like to receive support. The major focus is on what is important in everyday life in Germany: practical tips for living in Hamburg. Preparation for the first steps in vocational training and work. Deepening of language skills. Project Lenah is implemented by intercultural consultants and educators.

- ✓ Duration: 12 months
- ✓ Frequency: 2 mornings per week
- ✓ Adapted to Hamburg school holidays
- ✓ Certificate after participation
- ✓ Different locations
- ✓ Participation is free

The Lenah project aims at a self-determined life in Hamburg.

TARGET GROUP

Women and mothers from third countries who would like to receive practical information on topics about everyday life in Hamburg.
